

2002 Toilet Bowl Schedule

Date	Name Location	Team	Record Score Conf.	vs	Team	Record Score Conf.	Televised Time
Any Day in December		Best location	Tulsa 	1-11 WAC	vs	Rutgers 	1-11 Big East
		Best location	Army 	1-11 C-USA	vs	Buffalo 	1-11 MAC

The Toilet Bowl is normally comprised of the 2 worst teams in Division IA football. This year there are four teams with the same losing record. After careful review of each team's 2002 performance, it was difficult to come up with just two teams.

So in fairness to all teams, I decided it would be better to have a playoff. After all if the winners have the Bowl Championship Series (BCS) why not have the WTBP (Worst Team Bowl Playoff). In this playoff the Losers advance to the next round until the last loser is left on the turf.

Why have these theoretical playoff games? Because it gives three schools the chance to at least win one additional game for the season and at least salvage their reputation. There is some difficulty with the playoff system in that some of the teams played each other this year.

Rutgers' solo win was against Army and two of their losses were against Buffalo and Division IAA opponent, Villanova

Buffalo's win for the year was against Rutgers and they also lost against their only Division IAA opponent, Lehigh.

Army's win was against bowl bound Tulane but they also lost to Division IAA, Holy Cross.

Tulsa's lone win was against UTEP but UTEP was only one step ahead of Tulsa with a 2-10 record.

So there is some parity in college football. Now you have 4 teams with the same losing record. They can always raise their game to a new level. After all, Navy and Duke went from NO wins last year to at least 2 wins each this year. Of course one of Duke's wins was against Navy, 43 to 17. My actual 2001 Toilet Bowl game did occur in 2002.
