Any Day in December	 Best location	SMU 	0-12 WAC		Army 	0-13 C-USA	TBA

Here it is again and there are only two participants in the game. This year there is no need to have a playoff.

On one side you have the Southern Methodist University Mustangs who represent the Western Athletic Conference. Based on this year's record I guess the Mustangs are just calm and docile ponies. Shoot!, they were only outscored 386 to 134. In the old days the boosters assured their success but once the NCAA stepped in the boosters disappeared into the prairie. Of course the football program was put on 2 year's probation and disbanded. The program is still having difficulties. Well it's time to saddle up this pony and see what kind of ride there will be.

On the other side you have the United States Military Academy (Army) Black Knights who represent Conference USA. It has been a tough year for Army and the caissons have not been rolling really well. Maybe they need more horsepower and can hitch themselves to the Mustangs and win one. The Academy is diligent in trying to win but they have limitations on recruiting athletes. Now before you go about saying how come Navy did well this year and they are going to a bowl game. Don't forget Navy was a representative in a prior Toilet Bowl. Just remember these guys are defending our country every day whether they are Army or Navy and not playing with an oval spheroid on Sunday
